Disabled athlete faces three-month setback in training for Rio 2016

PARALYMPIC RACE CHAIR IS WRECKED BY VANDALS

DONATIONS have flooded in to help disabled athlete Richard Chiassaro after his dreams of competing in the 2016 Paralympic Games in Brazil hit a major setback when vandals damaged his race chair.

Richard, 34, of Seymours, Harlow, has been tipped for a podium place at next year's Games in Rio but his chances of winning a medal have been jeopardised after the steering on his custom-built racing chair was wrenched off and the carbon wheels buckled while it was at Mark Hall Sports Centre in First Avenue.

Targeted

Police said the vandalism, which took place between 6pm on December 1 and midday on Sunday could have been a targeted attack as no other equipment was damaged.

"My chances of getting a replacement chair are near impossible," said Richard, a member of Harlow Athletics Club. "Each racing chair is handmade and custom fit to the athlete.

"My chair was perfectly fitted, adjusted and moulded to suit my body shape and for optimal performance. I can't get a new chair made until March due to the extremely long waiting list and demand for racing chairs.

"My only hope is to get a second-hand chair and just try to make do until a new chair can be made."

He added: "This could affect my pushing technique and my performance which is important, especially as I need to keep pushing qualifying standards for Rio."

This week his supporters launched a Crowdfunding page which has already raised more than £1,500.

Fellow Paralympian Anne Wafula-Strike, of Willowfield, had her racing chair stolen the year before she competed in the 2004 Athens Paralympics.

She said: "I'm really appalled, and embarrassed to live in Harlow. For someone to want to take away his dream and potentially rob him of this opportunity is appalling."

Richard, who has spina bifida, recently returned from the World Championships in Doha where he competed in the T54 wheelchair 100 metres, 200m and 400m. He has enjoyed a fantastic year during which he closed the gap on the world's best and remains in the top six in the world rankings in his specialist events, the 100m and 200m.

Experts have examined the extent of the damage and have told Richard the chair cannot be fixed.

Vandals wreck athlete's quest for Rio 2016

"It's not the attack on the wheelchair that's the issue, it's the attack on my training and the possible impact that this could have on my selection for Rio that's the worst thing," he said.

"It's frustrating knowing that I got selected for the world championships and there is less than half a second between me and world number one but someone has made the decision to try and ruin this for me."

Harlow MP Robert Halfon pledged his support and said he would be making a personal donation.

"I will do everything I can to help," said Mr Halfon, who has spoken with both the disability and sports ministers.

A spokesman from Mark Hall Sports Centre said: "We are disgusted and saddened about this. The centre is privileged and honoured to have Richard train at our facilities and recently supported him when he competed at the World Championships in Doha."

"We are hoping as much as anyone else that he is selected to go to the Paralympics in Rio next year, but this has seriously hindered his training."

Richard also voluntarily coaches a large squad of disabled wheelchair athletes alongside training full time. His athletes range in age from seven to 50 and all are achieving their goals.

Anyone with information about the vandalism is asked to call Harlow police on the non-emergency 101 number.

Call to 'learn lessons' of closure of advice service

Public meeting urges council to carry out urgent review of process

Star Reporter

star@hertsexnews.co.uk

ANGRY residents said lessons must be learned from the closure of the former Harlow Welfare Rights & Advice service after the full cost was revealed to be £600,000.

A public meeting was called by the Friends of HWRA following the revelation that Harlow Council will eventually pay the six-figure sum.

Around 40 members of the public attended the meeting at St Paul's Church hall but Harlow Council failed to send a representative despite being asked on numerous occasions.

The event was chaired by former Labour councillor Jim Rogers, who said the authority maintained it was acting in "the best interests of Harlow taxpayers" by canceling the HWRA contract and forcing the closure of the advice centre.

"The aim of this meeting is to see what lessons can be learned from this," he said. "What we do know is that we have a lot of people out there who have been deprived of access to the help they need."

The details of the cost were revealed in a Freedom of Information report submitted by resident Pat Ruder, who had always admired the advice centre for its support for the needy and vulnerable of Harlow. She was angry at the way the service has been forced to close.

The meeting was told that Mrs Ruder made her application in June 2014 but, despite numerous interventions from the Government Information Commissioner, the council had only released the relevant information in the past few weeks.

A detailed history of HWRA was presented by the former manager Sue Jones, who now heads the newly-created Harlow Advice Centre based in the central library.

She explained that, due to a funding problem in 2012, HWRA had owed the council around £125,000 but would have been able to pay the amount in instalments and requested time to pay. HWRA was eventually given one business days' notice to pay £60,000 or face immediate closure.

HWRA was able to meet this demand but for insolvency law reasons needed an agreement that the council was willing to accept the remainder by instalment. The council did not agree.

The council's assurance that the termination of the contract will be met "within existing council budgets" drew an angry response from resident Pauras Kolah.

"The council will have to steal from other budgets to find this money," he said. "Surely the council has a basic duty of care to Harlow residents? Does it have the confidence of the people of Harlow?"

"We have just come through one of the worst recessions in modern history and yet this money has been spent in closing down a service that provided help and support to the vulnerable."

It is on record that many of the decisions on dealing with HWRA were taken in private session by the council cabinet.

This was confirmed by Cllr Jean Clark, one of a handful of councillors who had spoken out against the closure.

The meeting concluded by supporting a resolution calling on the council to conduct an urgent review "to ensure lessons are learned and any mistakes identified and, as far as possible residents' advice needs are met".

Airborne asbestos forces mum and son out of their home 'Santa won't be visiting us this year'

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexsexnews.co.uk

A MOTHER and her young son are facing a miserable Christmas after they were forced to leave their council flat when high levels of airborne asbestos were detected in the property.

Kara Hanrahan and her eight-year-old son Toby were evacuated from their home in Guildfords, Old Harlow, shortly before 9pm on Wednesday. The 32-year-old was told a test carried out by Harlow Council showed extremely high levels of asbestos.

"We had to leave everything behind and we were told to just take a change of clothes," said Ms Hanrahan. "They didn't tell us we wouldn't be able to come back."

The property has been sealed off with Ms Hanrahan's belongings, including Christmas presents for her son who attends Harlowbury School, still inside.

Sanded down

"Father Christmas is not coming to my son this year," said Ms Hanrahan, who claims she did not know there was asbestos in her home. "I sanded down the area where the asbestos is to decorate because no-one told me. If I'd have known I wouldn't have done it knowing the dangers."

She and her son have been moved to temporary accommodation.

"We're just in limbo and the council doesn't seem to care," she said. "They say we're a priority but nothing is happening."

Councillor Rod Truan, portfolio holder for housing, said it took issues of health and safety seriously and as well as offering temporary housing had provided Ms Hanrahan with support and advice.

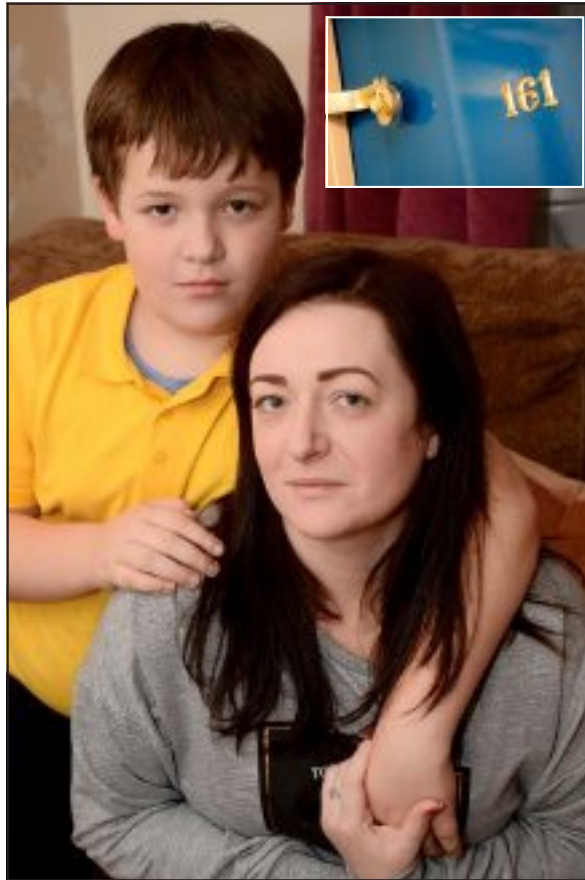

Tests

He said the council will be carrying out further tests to assess the extent of the release of asbestos caused by the home improvements and will then advise Miss Hanrahan.

He added: "During the time much of the town's housing was built, materials containing asbestos were extensively used by the construction industry. Asbestos is also present in many buildings built or refurbished before 2000."

"The council does provide advice to tenants on living with asbestos and all tenants are asked to contact the council for advice and permission before carrying out any home improvements."

"If tenants have any concerns about asbestos they should always contact the council on 01279 446655."

Friends and family mourn community stalwart

THE community of Harlow has lost one of its most dedicated supporters following the death this week of former councillor Martin Lawn.

Mr Lawn, of Tye Green Village, died in Princess Alexandra Hospital on Tuesday following a short illness. He was 78.

A member of the Harlow Development Corporation and former leader of Harlow Council back in the 1970s, Mr Lawn also chaired the Harlow Hospitals Trust and was serving chairman of the Harlow Health Centres Trust.

Mr Lawn moved to Harlow in the early 1960s after hearing about the developing new town from resident John Moore.

The two men became great friends and Mr Moore, who also served as a Harlow councillor, was best man when Mr Lawn married local journalist Pat Roberts in 1974.

Mr Lawn had a long career with STL in Harlow, rising to technical director. He then went on to become finance director with the old Essex Family Health Services Authority.

A former governor of Mark Hall School, he was also very active in running the Harlow branch of the Woodcraft Folk children's activities organisation, and in helping to run and maintain the Gibberd Garden.

"Martin was totally committed to the community of Harlow," said his wife. "He was also a kind and loving husband, father and grandfather. We're all going to miss him so much."

Friend and former council colleague Mike Danvers said: "He was a towering figure who fought hard to establish many of the services we take for granted today."

Mr Lawn is survived by wife Pat, sons Ben and Sam, granddaughter Norah Robin and brother Chris. His twin sister, Tessa, predeceased him.

Funeral arrangements were still being made as the Star went to press.

Free speech is not a crime

SIR, David Cameron described Labour MPs who intended to vote against UK military action in Syria as "a bunch of terrorist sympathisers".

This statement is slanderous and is an attempt to delegitimise reasonable opposition to Government policy. It is anti-democratic and totalitarian.

It is a disgrace that citizens of the United Kingdom are not free to express their opposition to military action in Syria without running the risk of being branded as terrorist sympathisers by the Prime Minister.

Given that it is a criminal offence in the United Kingdom to express sympathy for terrorism or terrorists, those who oppose UK military action in Syria have in effect been accused of being criminals by the leader of the government of which our local MP is a member.

By conflating criticism of government foreign policy with sympathy for terrorism, Mr Cameron has actually handed a propaganda victory to those who advocate violence.

Does Robert Halfon agree with Mr Cameron's description of MPs who oppose UK bombing of Syria as a bunch of terrorist sympathisers? Does Mr Halfon regard those of his constituents who oppose UK bombing of Syria as a bunch of terrorist sympathisers?

Without the freedom to express dissenting points of view there can be no democracy. If Mr Halfon does not publicly repudiate Mr Cameron's statement then he will demonstrate that he is an opponent of both free speech and democracy.

Traffic fiasco at roundabout

SIR, Can anyone tell me when the so-called road planners in the highways department at Essex County Council are going to do what they are supposed to be doing?

This is just one more letter about the fiasco that is called roundabout improvements near

■ This picture was taken last month by John Brooks, a member of the Harlow Seniors Photographic Group. "The photo is of a family walk in Katherine's Way," writes John, of Herons Wood. "This was a particularly colourful autumn in and around Harlow."

■ If you have a photo you have taken in or around Harlow and would like to see featured on this page, all you have to do is email a high resolution copy in JPEG format, along with a brief description and details of where and when it was taken, to star@hertsessexnews.co.uk. Please remember to include your name and address.

Harlow Town station. As soon as the works at the roundabout were completed there was a marked deterioration in traffic flow.

I live in Rivermill and it has always been a bit of a rat-run for people travelling from the town centre/hospital areas to gain access to Elizabeth Way.

In Rivermill, this would mean a line of four or five vehicles waiting to get on to Elizabeth Way. Since the improvements this line of cars now numbers up to 12 and the end of the line goes right in to Rivermill.

On Elizabeth Way itself, instead of cars queuing up to the rugby club, the line now sometimes goes all the way to the Ash Tree Field cricket pitches.

The trouble arises because, although the roundabout can now cope with much more traffic getting on to and around it, the road leading away from it towards Eastwick most certainly can't cope.

The answer lies in widening that half-mile stretch of road. I realise this would mean building or widening the existing rail and river bridges at a large cost but if the planners had done their jobs properly they could have used the millions of pounds they have already wasted on the roundabout.

The road has not been capable of carrying the weight of traffic for years and is typical of most main roads in Harlow. It really does need to be a dual carriageway.

That is the only way the huge traffic hold-ups in this area will be cured.

New software is a priority

SIR, With the advent of advanced social media interaction, it is expedient that individuals employing the services of Harlow's main library have access to up-to-date software.

On three different occasions over the past four months I have appealed to staff at the library to take measures to upgrade the browsers on the computers but nothing has been done.

As a fact, the browser I used was 20 versions late and did not support the work I actually wanted to do.

I therefore appeal to Essex County Council to make it a priority to work on this issue as it prevents some of us from getting maximum functionality from the library.

An attack on transparency

SIR, We should all be very concerned about the Government's planned changes to the Freedom of Information Act.

I believe information should be made available to the public as matter of principal. Much of this information is freely available in many other countries.

Journalists have used the Act to uncover and publish important information in the public interest.

If it wasn't for the Act we would never have known about MPs fiddling their expenses and, more recently, the fact some council and NHS chiefs earn three times what the Prime Minister does.

We all benefit as a result. If anything, the Act should be strengthened rather than weakened.

The Government wants to overhaul the Act because it would rather operate in secret. Chris Grayling, the Leader of the House of Commons, told MPs in October the Act is misused to "generate stories for the media". His words revealed a great deal about the Government's thinking.

It wants to water down the Act because it would rather be free from public scrutiny. Any attack on freedom of information is an attack on transparency.

Christingle campaign

SIR, As Christmas approaches there are thousands of carol singing and Christingle events being organised across the country - including in Essex - in aid of The Children's Society.

This year our fundraising campaign will help our specialist projects provide crucial support to children and young people who have been victims of child sexual exploitation.

Thousands of young people are being sexually exploited in communities across the country and the police have identified this as the biggest threat in the UK apart from terrorism.

Everybody who helps organise or attends a Christingle event will help us support more children and young people who have been victims of this abuse to stay safe and rebuild their lives.

To find your nearest Christingle service and more information about our work, visit childrenssociety.org.uk/christmastime.

Caring couple's foster family of 500 youngsters

49 years of helping children comes to an end

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A COUPLE who over the years have helped hundreds of young people by becoming foster carers have decided to call it a day.

Maureen Cushing, 67, of Kerril Croft, Harlow, has fostered more than 500 youngsters over a 49-year period since starting at the age of 17.

On Wednesday she and her husband, Jeff, 63, were invited to the Meadows Children's Centre, in Harberts Road, where they were presented with a certificate and bouquet to celebrate their remarkable achievement.

"It is a happy celebration but also sad," she said. "I have done 49 years and I was hoping to do 50 but because of my health and family reasons I am going to have to stop."

Mrs Cushing, who started fostering with a former husband, had three children of her own when she was in her 20s.

"The county council got me involved when I was 17 and it began with helping young children for only a short period of time," she said. "Things changed when I had my own three children and I began with longer term placements."

"In the 1980s there were three that I had right through until they were in their mid-teens and for a stage we had a large family of six children."

It was during this period that Mrs Cushing separated from her first husband but she carried on fostering for both short and long term placements.

In 1992 she married Jeff and together they began taking on young people in more challenging circumstances, providing a family home for emergency placements and asylum seekers.

"We had to work hard during those years but I would say about 90 per cent of the time it was thoroughly enjoyable and we are happy to have been part of these people's lives," she said.

"I am still mum to a boy and a girl I fostered, whose two children call me gran."

Mr Cushing added: "We have had so many placements, I think it has been more than 500. Some would last for a few weeks and others would be gone after a few days."

Checks

"The vetting procedure is very different now to how it used to be. It used to be the case that you would fill in a few forms and you would be good to go. Now it takes much longer for more checks to be done and I think that is a good thing."

"Fostering is not for everybody but for us it is a way of life. Some people foster for a short time and decide it's not for them."

The couple's final foster child will be moving on soon, leaving the couple with a house to themselves for the first time in years.

Mr Cushing said: "Essex County Council has been very supportive and we have had our own social worker, as well as a group of other foster carers to meet up with."

"Fostering is a wonderful thing and I would encourage anyone interested to find out more."

MPs right to back ISIS air strikes says Halfon

HARLOW MP Robert Halfon said he was glad Parliament voted in favour of military action against ISIS targets in Syria.

Mr Halfon, who voiced support for David Cameron's call for air strikes before last Wednesday's vote in the House of Commons, insisted it was not an easy option but said he believed the Prime Minister had made the right decision.

There were, he said, three key facts which supported air strikes – that Britain was under attack, had a moral duty to stop genocide and terrorism where possible and intervention was mandated by United Nations Resolution 2249.

"The Prime Minister said in Parliament that UK intelligence services have already warded off seven terrorist attacks in the past six months," said Mr Halfon.

"ISIS/Daesh have murdered many thousands of innocent civilians, carried out mass rapes and enslaved many more. They also have destroyed ancient civilizations and tried to massacre the entire nation of Yazidi."

Mr Halfon also expressed his huge admiration for senior Labour politicians including Margaret Beckett, Alan Johnson and Yvette Cooper who supported the case for military action.

However, Harlow Trades Union Council said it opposed the air strikes in Syria and accused the 66 Labour MPs who voted in favour of them of betraying the party.

Secretary David Forman said: "I think the 66 MPs are traitors to the party and it shows the determination of the right wing of the party to undermine the peaceful policy of Jeremy Corbyn."

Charity gym challenge raises £800

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

IT was a case of no pain, no gain for a group of former soldiers who took part in a charity workout at a Harlow gym.

The six-strong team of ex-servicemen – James Berry, Dan Gittins, David Oakes, Dan Wilce, Ryan Beel and Scott Millar – raised almost £800 by lifting a combined weight of 250 tonnes during the event at the premises of Ripped Gym in Wych Elm.

They completed multiple sets of 100kg lifts using different methods including squats, bench presses and dead lifts.

They money they have raised will be donated to CLIC Sargent, a charity which supports children and young people with cancer, as well as their families.

Challenge

CLIC Sargent fundraising manager Karen Roberts said: "The guys did a great job completing the challenge.

"They lifted the equivalent weight of an eight-car tube train through a combined lift which they achieved in less than three hours.

"They are all ex-servicemen and now work as train technicians. It worked out at about 41 tonnes each, but obviously it was a team effort."

With money still being collected, they are hoping the final total will reach £1,000, enough to pay for one family to stay for a month in one of the charity's nine Homes from Home properties located close to cancer treatment centres in eight cities or for six families to receive a grant on diagnosis.

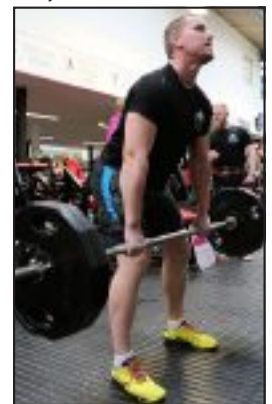

Ms Roberts added: "It is hard to comprehend what these guys set out to do but we are thrilled that they are supporting the charity.

"We really appreciate the hard work and commitment that goes in to taking on a challenge like this and every penny raised will help provide vital support for children and young people with cancer, as well as their families."

In brief

Five arrested after being found in back of a lorry

NAZEING: Five people suspected of being illegal immigrants were arrested by police during the search of a lorry.

Police were called to Nazeing Road on Thursday afternoon after receiving reports of sounds coming from inside the parked vehicle.

A spokesman for Essex Police said the five men – three Iraqis and two Iranians – were arrested on suspicion of entering the country illegally and handed over to UK Border Force.

The lorry driver, a 60-year-old man from Bulgaria, was also arrested on suspicion of migration offences.

Charity pamper night

HARLOW: There's a chance to take a break from the Christmas shopping and enjoy a relaxing facial or manicure at a charity event tomorrow (Friday) evening.

The Christmas Pamper Shopping Event at the Great Parndon Community Association in Abercrombie Way is in aid of Muscular Dystrophy UK.

Facials, express manicures, gel nails and HD brows will be available while local retailers will be selling a range of cosmetics.

The event starts at 6.30pm and admission on the door is £3. There will also be a licensed bar.

Police seize shotguns

HARLOW: Police removed a number of shotguns from the home of an elderly man on Saturday.

The family of the man contacted Essex Police to voice concern over his health and the fact he was in possession of the guns.

Seven shotguns and certificates were seized. A review will now be held to assess whether the owner is fit to hold a firearms certificate.

THE spirit of Christmas is alive and well in Harlow after Santa's little helpers spread a little joy to children around the town.

For the fifth year running members of the Rough Creed Motorcycle Club rode around town collecting presents which they delivered to the children's ward (Dolphin) at Princess Alexandra Hospital.

The gifts will be given to children who will be in the hospital over Christmas.

This year the bikers also donated cash to junior doctors who will be working overtime during the festive period and presented the charity Upwards With Downs with toys and panto tickets for Harlow Playhouse's production of Snow White and the Seven Dwarves.

Cristina Griffiths, from Upwards with Downs, said: "The bikers, one of whom was dressed up as Santa, gave out soft toys to the younger children and pantomime tickets to the older ones before making their way to the hospital. A great day was had by all."

Meanwhile, representatives of the Harvey Centre have presented toys, games, dolls and action figures worth more than £2,000 to Dolphin Ward.

Harlow Council chairman Tony Hall and Harvey Centre manager Bryan Young were on hand when the gifts were delivered to the hospital on Monday

Cllr Hall said: "I was delighted to attend this drop-off and help spread a little festive cheer among Dolphin Ward. It's a great initiative by the Harvey Centre."

Mr Young added: "The work of the Dolphin Ward and Princess Alexandra Hospital is fantastic."

"We wanted to support this and to cheer up those children who, instead of spending Christmas at home unwrapping presents, will be in hospital this festive season."

Frozen stars to set festive fun runners on their way

A LATE surge in registrations means that St Clare Hospice's festive fun run will take place in Harlow this weekend.

There had been fears that the annual 5km fundraiser would have to be cancelled because fewer people than expected had signed up.

But this week organisers confirmed it will go ahead – and have lined up Disney princesses Elsa and Anna to start the runners and walkers on their way.

The fun run starts from the Water Gardens at 9am but before that two characters from Frozen will be available to meet their fans and pose for pictures.

Heather Cameron, St Clare's events fundraiser, said: "We couldn't think of anyone more perfect than Elsa and Anna to start our event. We are thrilled they will be joining us on the day as we know just how much people of all ages love Frozen."

Celebration

She added: "The fun run is the perfect family-friendly event for people to kick off their festive celebration while supporting their local hospice this Christmas."

"We really hope as many people as possible will be part of it, not only to join us in getting into the spirit of the occasion but also to raise vital funds to help us care for local families this yuletide."

Registration costs £7.50 for adults and £2.50 for children. Participants are asked to pledge to raise a minimum of £45 in sponsorship, enough to cover the cost of providing Christmas dinner for a family staying at the hospice over the festive period.

For more information or to register in advance, visit <http://stclarehospice.org.uk>. Alternatively, people wanting to register on the day can do so from 8.15am.

The route of the fun run is suitable for both wheelchairs and pushchairs, and dogs are welcome.

Walkers dress to impress for Christmas fundraiser

A GROUP of keen walkers swapped their usual clothing for festive finery as they stepped out in style on Sunday to raise funds for charity.

Sporting Christmas jumpers and seasonal outfits, more than 20 members of Harlow Sunday Walkers set off on a circular route from Bush Fair, taking in the town centre and The Stow, and collecting cash from pedestrians along the way.

Passing motorists sounded their horns to show their support, with some stopping to throw coins into the collection buckets.

In addition to the cash collected on the day, the walkers also raised money through a raffle and received donations through Just Giving. Their efforts resulted in more than £700 being raised for St Clare Hospice.

Walk organiser Steve Morton said: "I'd like to thank everyone who took part and the local businesses who kindly donated raffle prizes."

"This event pulled together members of the community to support a valued and worthy cause."

Businessman calls for Crossrail 2 bid

Petition asks for town station to be included in project

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A PETITION has been launched to include Harlow Town station in proposals for a new railway link.

Currently in a consultation stage, the Crossrail 2 project has been championed by Transport for London chiefs as a regeneration tool that will bring 200,000 homes and 200,000 jobs.

Michele Dix, TFL's managing director for Crossrail 2, said: "This is a vital new railway which will help support thousands of new homes and jobs across the region whilst boosting the UK economy."

However, current proposals call for the line to terminate at Broxbourne.

Through his petition on Harlow Council's website, business director Richard Osband has challenged the local authority to fight for the inclusion of Harlow Town on Crossrail 2.

"We are asking the council to urgently back and support a campaign to lobby TFL to include Harlow Town station on Crossrail 2," said Mr Osband, whose firm Courtenay Investments own many of the units in Broad Walk and Terminus Street.

"We urge the council to seize this opportunity as part of its 2020 vision to drive the regeneration of Harlow towards its goals of a prosperous community."

"We implore the council to consider the benefits that frequent, fast and expanded transport links will bring to this regeneration programme."

"So we ask that Harlow Council adopts a sustained lobbying approach with TFL to ensure that Harlow Town station is part of Crossrail 2."

Chris Curtis, Network Rail's Head of Crossrail 2, said: "Harlow Town would benefit from Crossrail 2 as the addition of more tracks from Tottenham Hale to Broxbourne would help free up main line rail routes into London."

"This would enable faster journeys between Harlow Town and Liverpool Street and, subject to demand, could also increase the number of faster services between Harlow Town and Liverpool Street."

The Conservative group of Harlow Council has put forward a motion for debate at a full council meeting next week.

The closing date for submissions is Friday, January 8. To sign Mr Osband's petition visit www.harlow.gov.uk.

Public prevented from using free car park after an 'illegal' takeover

A PUBLIC car park used by rambles, dog walkers and anglers has been closed temporarily after black rubble was spread across the surface without permission.

Harlow Council, which has erected a fence to prevent motorists from using the site in River Way, said the free-to-use car park had been "taken over" by employees of a local business.

The rubble had damaged turf and surrounding landscape and the council has said it will cost thousands of pounds to repair.

The council has referred the matter to the police and said it will seek to recover its costs from whoever was responsible.

Cllr Tony Durcan, portfolio holder for regeneration and enterprise, said: "We had to take immediate action to close the car park as it was stopping river users from parking there. We are making enquiries as to who may have tried to take over this car park."

"Illegally taking over a public car park and throwing Tarmac over is completely unacceptable."

The car park will remain closed while the situation is reviewed. One possibility under consideration is the introduction of pay-and-display with a free parking period.

Cllr Durcan added: "We know that parking in a busy industrial area can be a problem for local workers so it is a shame that whoever did this did not approach the council for help and advice."

Peace campaigners to hold candlelit vigil

A CANDLELIT peace vigil will be held in Harlow this weekend.

The hour-long event will take place outside Harlow Civic Centre on Sunday, starting at 8.30pm.

Organisers said the terrorist attacks in Paris has focussed the world's attention on the need to find a peaceful solution to conflict.

"It has caused us to pause and reflect upon all areas of the world where communities are inflicted by war on a daily basis or come under frequent attack," said a spokesman.

"In this season of goodwill, we want to join with the people of Harlow in a spirit of goodwill to all to commit ourselves to work for peace in our world and communities."

"We want to give the people of Harlow the opportunity to come together and demonstrate our unity and resolve and to give voice collectively to our thoughts and feelings."

The candlelit vigil will last from 8.30-8.50pm. Hot drinks will then be served in St Paul's church hall, followed by readings for peace from 9.10-9.30pm.

FURIOUS: Darren Smith said repairs to the ceiling which collapsed because of the leak were only a quick-fix solution

Tenant's anger over long wait to repair leak

Water from shower caused ceiling to collapse

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

A DISABLED council tenant who said a leak in the floor of his walk-in shower has left water pouring down the wall of his home was told he faced a 52-week wait for it to be repaired.

Father-of-three Darren Smith said the front room of his home in Tany's Dell, Harlow, had been damaged by water leaking through the floor of his wet room.

Mr Smith, who suffers with arthritis and epilepsy and can only walk with the aid of a stick, and his wife Katrina have been living with the problem for more than a year.

"Water is pouring down the wall and the ceiling fell down three months ago," said Mr Smith. "This leak has been going on for more than a year, ever since I had flooring done."

"The council has sent people round at least seven times to do something but they will only fix the ceiling."

He added: "We've been told that for the shower to be repaired we would have to wait 52 weeks."

This week the council responded with an offer to repair the flooring of the wet room. However, Mr Smith remains unhappy and described the work carried out on the ceiling as a "quick-fix solution".

He said a contractor has placed a plank of wood over the area where the water leaks and cut a hole through which water can drip into a bucket placed below.

"At the moment they have just done a temporary job at fixing the ceiling after it fell to bits and there is a big hole."

"As there are lights on the ceiling the water is coming down on to it is becoming very dangerous. It has ruined my front room and I have had enough of this."

Condition

Mr Smith said he has been forced to take showers at the homes of friends because of the leak.

"Because of my condition I need to take showers in the wet room as I have to walk with the aid of a stick but at the moment I am not able to do that without more water pouring through," he added.

"I am annoyed at this situation and I have tried very hard to sort it out. I have even contacted the local MP."

A Harlow Council spokesman said this week: "We apologise to Mr Smith for the time this is taking to resolve and this has been referred to a senior manager in Kier Harlow."

"The leak is being caused by the wet room flooring and Kier Harlow has arranged for a specialist flooring contractor to visit the property."

ON THE RUN: St Alban's Catholic Academy held a Race for Life

Grand effort in a good cause

TEACHERS and children at a Harlow primary school went the extra mile for charity by raising almost £1,000 with a fun run.

The Race for Life event at St Alban's Catholic Academy, in First Avenue, Harlow, was held to raise money for Cancer Research UK.

Infants completed a half-mile circuit while the junior classes tested themselves over the full mile distance. Their combined efforts raised £914.65 for the charity. Teacher Fabienne Boyce said: "It was not a race and we were all running for the same cause. We have never done this before but we decided to do it for the first time to raise awareness as cancer is something many people have been affected by."

"We held the run at the start of the morning and sent classes off two at a time. It went so well we may do it again next year."

On the same day the school held a non-uniform day.

Building up knowledge of their career options

Construction convention highlights job opportunities

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

YOUNG people were given the chance to find out more about career opportunities within the construction industry when they were invited to a convention held at Harlow's Passmore Academy.

The event was put on by property developer Places for People, which set out to build up the expectations of the 150 students who attended, and dispel any assumption that it just took a bricklayer to build a house.

Architecture

The youngsters from schools across west Essex were provided with information about job opportunities in architecture, planning, finance and engineering. They also took part in a number of interactive sessions led by architects, quantity surveyors and town planners as well as experts in procurement, health and safety and marketing.

Places for People, one of the largest property and leisure management, development and regeneration companies in the UK, is behind plans to build up to 10,000 new homes on land to the north of Harlow.

Mary Parsons, group director of Places for People, said: "We

FOUNDATION LEARNING: Pupils consider town planning and infrastructure across the district." She added: "For too long we haven't trained enough architects, bricklayers, town planners and quantity surveyors and provided young people with the right opportunities to get the construction skills to help build the homes and roads our local communities need to thrive."

"We want local people to be able to access the employment opportunities this growth will bring – and for Essex and Hertfordshire to have the skills locally to deliver this major programme of homes

Passmore Academy principal Vic Goddard said: "We are delighted to have industry experts in to educate our young people about the huge variety of opportunities present."

"It's been great planning the day with such a committed community partner and I'm sure the young people will have gained a huge amount."

Finnish liaison off to good start

VISITORS from Finland were given a warm welcome when they arrived in Harlow as part of a student exchange programme.

The youngsters from Puistola School in Helsinki stayed with students from Stewards Academy, in Parnall Road, during their week-long trip.

Extra-curricular activities included a visit to London which took in many of the capital's landmarks including Big Ben, Downing Street and Buckingham Palace. The following day they enjoyed a trip to Cambridge with a tour of one of the university college buildings and punting.

Now the link has been established with Puistola School, students from Stewards will travel to Helsinki next year for the return leg of the exchange visit.

Take the plunge and sign up for Rotary club's charity abseil

ORGANISERS of a long-running charity event have started their search for thrillseekers and daredevils with a head for heights.

Harlow Tye Rotary Club will be holding its annual fundraising abseil down the side of the Church Langley Water Tower on Saturday, April 30 and Sunday, May 1 next year.

To encourage people to sign up early, it is offering a discounted registration fee of £30 until Friday, January 1. After that it will increase to £35.

The event is now in its 19th year and the club is hoping to pass the £1m mark for the amount of money that has been raised for worthy causes since it was first held back in 1997.

People taking part can raise money for a charity of their own choice or pick one from the Rotary Club's Club spokesman Don Crampton said: "More than £800,000 has been raised in the 18 years we have done it so far so why not give it a go? Nothing ventured nothing gained."

Anniversary visit to theatre by Sir Winston's grandson

THE grandson of Sir Winston Churchill was shown the blue plaque honouring the wartime prime minister's service as MP for Epping and Harlow during a visit to Old Harlow.

Sir Nicholas Soames, who is Conservative MP for Mid Sussex, also followed in the footsteps of his grandfather when he addressed an audience at the Victoria Hall Theatre, in Bury Road.

His visit was arranged to mark the 50th anniversary of the death of Sir Winston, who from 1924 to 1945 served as MP for the Epping constituency.

The plaque was erected on the wall of the theatre by Harlow Civic Society in 2013.

Harlow MP Robert Halfon said: "Winston Churchill notably spoke at Victoria Hall as a parliamentary candidate in 1924. In the 50th anniversary year of his death it is a huge honour to have Sir Nicholas visit the theatre."

Cheer on panto convoy on its way to Playhouse

A CONVOY of 12 limousines will set off from the Latton Bush Centre on Sunday to take a party of children and adults on a special trip to Harlow Playhouse.

It is being organised by funeral directors Daniel Robinson & Sons which, for the past five years, has arranged for youngsters who had a tough time as a result of bereavement or illness to enjoy a special day with the families.

The company will decorate its fleet of limousines to ferry the families from the Latton Bush Centre to the theatre. They will be treated to lunch at BHS before joining the audience for a performance of this year's panto, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs.

"To see the look on the children's faces and the families feeling special really is truly humbling and priceless," said manager Phil Barrow. "We would like as many people as possible to spare a couple of minutes to line the route and be outside the Playhouse to cheer and clap as the convoy passes."

The convoy will leave from the Latton Bush Centre at 1pm. It will then travel along Southern Way, Paringdon Road, Commonsidge Road, Trotters Road, back onto Southern Way, Tawneys Road, Tendering Road, Tripton Road, Second Avenue and Haydens Road before arriving at Playhouse Square.

Community hub offers a one-stop shop for advice

A ONE-STOP community hub which offers advice on issues ranging from employment and finances to benefits, health and general wellbeing is celebrating its first six months.

The MAC Hub holds fortnightly meetings at its base at Job Centre Plus in Crown Gate, Harlow.

It provides the public with a chance to talk to representatives from a number of service providers including Harlow Council's revenues and benefits team, Integration Support Services, Rainbow Services, Mind in West Essex and Safer Places.

The daytime drop-in meetings, which are held on Thursdays, are open to everyone and there is no need to make an appointment. The next takes place on December 17.

Public invitation to join PAH staff at carol concert

Service will follow procession through town centre

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

RESIDENTS are being invited to take part in a celebration of Christmas, including a guided procession through the town centre, in Harlow next week.

The hospital and community event is being organised by the Princess Alexandra Hospital NHS Trust which is inviting members of the public to join staff and visitors at the service in St Paul's Church on Wednesday (December 16).

The plan is for staff and visitors to meet in the hospital restaurant at 5.05pm for a guided procession to the church through the town centre. The service starts at 5.30pm and will include music and reflection, with carols, readings and prayers.

Hospital chaplain Christian Okeke, who will be taking part in the service, said: "Christmas is a time of delight and joy but it is also a time to celebrate Jesus and remember what he sacrificed.

"As a community in Harlow it is important that during this season we come together to celebrate and reflect on what we are thankful for and what we could do better in the new year."

Reflection

PAH chief executive Phil Morley added: "We hope to see as many of our staff, friends, volunteers and patients there as possible.

"It is the time of year for reflection and also to look forward to 2016. It is the perfect event to get into the festive spirit so please spread the word."

Visitors will be served mince pies and mulled wine donated by the Tesco store at Church Langley.

■ For more information about the service, contact the hospital communications team on (01279) 827403 or email communications@pah.nhs.uk.

Following footsteps of giant dinosaurs

DINOSAURS disappeared from the face of our planet many millions of years ago but even today scientists are finding new evidence of where and how they lived.

The latest discovery is a trail of hundreds of footprints on the Isle of Skye which proves these giant creatures once roamed in Scotland.

It is believed the tracks were made by sauropods, one of the biggest of the dinosaurs which had long necks and tails, small heads and four thick legs. They measured about 15 metres (45ft) from head to tail and weighed more than 10 tons.

It is the first time sauropod footprints have been found in Scotland. They were discovered by a team of researchers from the University of Edinburgh in rocks that once formed the bottom of a shallow, salt water lagoon. Up until now it was thought sauropods only lived on land.

Dr Steve Brusatte told

reporters: "This is one of the most remarkable dinosaur discoveries ever made in Scotland.

"By following the tracks you can walk with these dinosaurs as they waded through a lagoon 170 million years ago."

Merry Christmas Harlow

If you're playing host to visitors this Christmas, why not consider a Boxing Day walk around your local area and take in some of the sights in and around Harlow?

Although officially a New Town, Harlow is steeped in history so get reading and prepare to impress your guests this festive season!

It was on March 25 1947 that Harlow New Town was officially created when it was designated as one of eight completely new planned communities which were to be 'free-standing, offering work and homes to those who moved there'.

Designed by architect-planner Sir Frederick Gibberd, Harlow was intended to re-house those displaced from the bombing of east London during the Second World War. Sir Frederick Gibberd was also responsible for establishing the Harlow Arts Trust.

Harlow New Town was developed around the market town of Old Harlow and the villages of Great Parndon, Latton, Little Parndon and Netteswell.

There is evidence of settlements here thousands of years ago, with axe heads which were made around 6000 BC, found at Parndon, as well as a Roman mosaic floor in the Temple Fields area.

The town is comprised of a series of neighbourhoods, separated by 'green wedges' which make access to natural landscape easy for Harlow's 80,000 residents. Each neighbourhood was designed so that residents can access schools, shops and health services within easy walking distance.

The town is renowned for having Britain's first pedestrian precinct – Broad Walk – in the town centre and country's first tower block, The Lawn, which was constructed in 1951 and is now a Grade II-listed building.

Otway's back at The Square

SUCCESS for a rock musician is hard to come by but few artists are able to embrace defeat as well as John Otway.

While many of his peers will proudly list their hit records, John named his autobiography Rock and Roll's Greatest Failure.

But while his two chart hits were 25 years apart and his set-list hasn't changed for a decade, John's country spanning tours are as popular as ever.

This Saturday, December 12, he will play at The Square to bid farewell to one of his favourite venues.

"My connection with The Square goes back years," he said.

"It's a great venue and it's a bit sad that it's going to close, especially as that is where I put my band together."

The band he mentions were formed in 1993 and have played with John ever since on many a trip back to The Square.

"For one of our albums quite a lot of recording took place at The Square," he added.

"I'm looking forward to playing there again and I hope they find a new venue so I can come back."

John's weirdly wonderful career began with a childhood visit to a fortune teller who predicted he would find success with a blonde-haired musician.

Being the only person he knew that fitted the description, John paired up with Wild Willy Barrett and the pair went on to release their first single in 1972.

Their dynamic but often fraught relationship has been an on-off part of John's career and the duo will tour for one last time together in 2016.

"He said it will be his last that he ever does," said John,

"But I hope to change his mind. The last date for that tour will be at the Leicester Square theatre."

It took several years for John to find success and fame arrived in a typically unusual way when he became the talk of the town when he crashed into a heap live on TV after misjudging a jump onto an amplifier.

On the back of the fall, the song he was performing, Really Free, became a hit, reaching number 27 in the charts and led John to secure a five-album record deal.

Appearances on Top of the Pops followed but John suffered by being mistakenly labelled as a punk and album sales dried-up.

"I'd consider my first hit to be my biggest achievement, but my biggest failure was to have 25 years between them," he said.

John returned to the charts in 2002 after a fan-campaign to celebrate his 50th birthday led to his track Bunsen Burner getting into the top 10 – with a second appearance on Top of the Pops following.

But the wilderness years in between were anything but straightforward as he tried his hand at acting, directing and wrote his successful autobiography.

Throughout his 45-year career one constant was his chaotic live shows which have continued to attract large audiences.

John has sold out the Royal Albert Hall and set an attendance record at former London venue Astoria for the amount of beer bought by fans – but remains best known for his relentless country-spanning tours.

"It's nice going up and down the country," he said.

"I try to get to most of the country on a tour and I quite like the process. It's been a really great year and I've been as far north as the Orkney Islands.

"The setlist has remained very similar for a long time as I haven't done any new music," he laughed.

It has been nearly 10 years since the release of his last LP, but John said there may be new music very soon.

"I'm going to do a Kickstarter campaign to try and fund it," he said.

"The problem up until now has been demand for a new album, but I guess this way I'll see how much demand there really is.

"We're going to record it in Montserrat in the Caribbean, where no band has recorded since the Rolling Stones in 1989. We're hoping for a similar success! Of course it will be a rock and roll album."

During a break from live shows, John started another project to curate a film of his life, aptly named Otway The Movie, which was a critical success.

The film drew comparisons with Spinal Tap in the way it humorously depicted the main character's highs and many lows in a quest for rock stardom. The only difference was that the 'plot' actually happened!

■ John Otway and his band will perform on Saturday, December 12 at The Square in Fourth Avenue, Harlow.

Tickets for the event cost £10 in advance and can be bought from www.thesquareharlow.com/listings.

Big band blows away the grumpy Grinch!

REVIEW: Five Star Swing Perform The Big Band at Christmas

IT seems it has been weeks since I had snappily written to friends on Facebook sharing yet another festive post or that Santa Claus was coming "Hush we are in November!"

For me the Christmas period begins at the absolute earliest of December 1. You can imagine my delight then sat in Harlow Playhouse main auditorium waiting for a Christmas show mid-November!

The big band orchestra proffered their festive offering under the musical direction of Chris Smith, who duly had his keyboard set up centre stage with the band dotted around him.

Opening with Winter Wonderland, there was a strange happening. I heard the music and by the second verse, a small smile appeared across my face and a bizarre involuntary physical reaction which had made my head sway from one side to the other. These guys could play, really play, and to my horror and surprise, the Ebenezer Scrooge and bah humbug in me begin to dissipate and fade away to be replaced by the first ebb and flow which can only be described as festive spirit.

By the time they had completed the medley 'big band Christmas' I was singing along, clapping and having a thoroughly good time with the rest of the audience.

This was the first time I had seen this big band, but I certainly hope it will not be the last. Chris's wife certainly has the voice in the family and he clearly has an eye for musical direction.

I particularly enjoyed the fun and spirit of Jingle Bells in the dark.

All in all, I couldn't have enjoyed myself more and I allowed myself to think "now the festive period begins" – even though it was still November – just don't tell my friends on Facebook!

Choir's first concert wows audience

NEW community choir Church Langley Voices kicked off in style with its inaugural concert No Time for Christmas! on Saturday, November 28.

Under the guidance of its two musical directors, Mary Norkett and Lis Scott, more than 40 singers presented a half-hour informal programme of light Christmas music to an audience of around 100 invited friends and relatives in the Church Langley Church and Community Centre building.

The event was well received, with the audience joining in dancing to the final number in true rock 'n' roll style. The concert was followed by snacks and mulled wine.

The concert followed a short seven-week period of rehearsals.

"We weren't sure how many would come," said Lis Scott. "We thought 20, maybe 30, people for the first rehearsal. In the event, more than 50 turned up on the first night – and we have had very few drop out since. Everyone has been very enthusiastic, and the event has been a pleasure to organise."

Church Langley Voices was formed to give local residents the opportunity to sing together as an informal choir, and includes a wide range of singing abilities ranging from those who do not read music to experienced musicians.

More information is available by emailing enquire@clvoices.org.uk.

Motown's magic music

GET Ready for the Magic of Motown, the show which celebrates a revolutionary era in American music.

The songs of The Four Tops, Diana Ross and The Supremes and The Jackson 5 will be performed at Harlow Playhouse in the tribute show.

"Magic of Motown has spent the past decade continuing the legend of solid gold artists," said show producer Michael Taylor.

"For our 10th anniversary tour, we are proud to announce the show will include more No1 hits than ever before."

Tickets are now on sale for the show, which will be performed in February, and Michael said there is no better time to enjoy the Motown music.

"In addition to the 10th year celebration, 2016 is also the 50th anniversary of The Four Tops signature hit Reach Out.

"The song enjoys the distinction of being acclaimed as this stunning production's stand-out performance, which is why we have named the performances the Reach Out tour.

"Thirty-six classic songs are revived amid a flurry of glittering costume changes and starring all the dazzling dance moves and superb musicianship of the original artists.

"Sadly, many of the original singing legends are either no longer with us or no longer touring. The Magic of Motown is the nearest you'll get to authentically capturing their incredible musical legacy in a live show."

The popular tour has been taken all around Europe and been performed more than 1,500 times with a new generation enjoying the classic numbers.

Magic of Motown packs in a whole variety of hits from the 1950s to present day, including Baby Love, Ain't No Mountain High Enough, I Want You Back and of course Get Ready by The Temptations.

Michael puts the success of the show down to the abilities of the cast to re-create the appeal of the songs.

"Our young cast is able to reflect the exuberance and excitement of these songs as they were originally performed," he said.

"Equal care is taken to reproduce the original look of the stars on stage. It was not just the music that set them apart from all other hit singers of the time.

"For mass market appeal, artist's images were carefully controlled from dress and choreography, right down to their manners."

■ The Magic of Motown – Reach Out will be performed at Harlow Playhouse on Thursday, February 11 with tickets costing £22.50 - £25. Tickets can be bought at www.playhouseharlow.com

WORTH A WATCH

Mike's TV Film of the Week

THRILLER: FRENZY, BBC Two, Friday, December 11, 11.30m
FOLLOWING Saboteur last week, another Alfred Hitchcock, but this time very near the end of his illustrious career. From 1958 to 1963, he reached what is now regarded as his artistic peak with the run of Vertigo, North By Northwest, Psycho and The Birds, all of them except the first box office smashes to boot.

But he was then, understandably, shaken by the critical and commercial failure of the exceptional Marnie in 1964, and his next two films, Torn Curtain (1966) and Topaz (1969), were genuine duds. So in 1972, 33 years after leaving for Hollywood, Hitch came home to London to make Frenzy.

It's a maddeningly uneven movie; odd, blackly comic and deeply disturbing (even by Hitchcock's standards), clumsily constructed and sometimes clunky, but with extended passages of breathtaking brilliance. One thing's for sure – in the hands of almost any other director, it wouldn't be half the film it is.

There's a nice opening, with gloriously inappropriate, stirring music and travelogue-style footage of the Thames ending in a sick pollution gag and the news that there's a serial killer at large in central London. He rapes women and then strangles them with his tie, hence his soubriquet "the necktie murderer".

Hitch spends about 15 minutes hinting that the man responsible is sullen, volatile, heavy drinking ex-RAF officer Richard Blaney (Jon Finch), before revealing it to be his chipper chappie pal Bob Rusk (Barry Foster). And he reveals this by means of one of the most horrific – not in terms of explicitness, but of effect – murder scenes ever.

It makes for uncomfortable viewing even now, thanks to Hitch's merciless expertise and the pitch-perfect playing of Foster and Barbara Leigh-Hunt.

Later on, when the door closes on what we know will be a second murder, the still-traumatised camera declines to follow. Instead, it backs away slowly in silence, down the stairs and out into the bustling, oblivious street. It ranks as one of the most sublime single shots in all cinema.

Excellent, but it might have been even better.

Why there's no one quite like grandma

Grandma

COMEDY DRAMA: (15) 79 mins
Director: Paul Weitz
Starring: Lily Tomlin, Julia Garner, Marcia Gay Harden, Judy Greer, Laverne Cox, Sam Elliott, Nat Wolff

In 1980, a group of rosy-cheeked children from St Winifred's Roman Catholic Primary School in Stockport famously topped the UK Christmas singles chart with There's No One Quite Like Grandma.

The cherubic moppets rejoiced: "She always has a smile, she never hurries us along..."

The lead character in Paul Weitz' delightful comedy drama sticks up two fingers to that beatific image of patience and enduring grace in old age.

Portrayed with gusto by Lily Tomlin, this grandma is a

ROAD TRIP: Lily Tomlin and Julia Garner on the road in Grandma

potty-mouthed whirling dervish, who spits in the eye of political correctness, clobbers a rude teenager with a hockey stick and openly discusses her bodily functions, oblivious to the potential embarrassment of passersby.

"My last period was 25 years ago. We did a ceremony for it," confides the ballsy septuagenarian.

It's a meaty, eye-catching role full of vim that could deservedly land the Detroit-born actress a second Oscar nomination.

Weitz' film is also blessed with a nuanced supporting performance from Julia Garner as a granddaughter, who acts tough but is ill-prepared for the harsh reality of life when it bites her and draws blood.

Lesbian poet Elle (Lily Tomlin) is slowly coming to terms with the death of her long-term partner Vi.

She lashes out and coldly terminates a fledgling romance by telling her girlfriend Olivia (Judy Greer): "You're a footnote."

Soon after, Elle's 18-year-old granddaughter Sage (Julia Garner) arrives in search of money.

"I need 630 dollars. I'm pregnant," reveals the teenager, who has booked an appointment at an abortion clinic, but doesn't have the funds for the procedure.

Nor does Elle, but that doesn't stop the grandmother from jumping into her car with Sage and tearing around Los Angeles to call in unpaid debts and beg for cash.

They initially visit Sage's slacker boyfriend Cam (Nat Wolff), whose scruffy appearance and laissez faire attitude to birth control rankles Elle.

"Some people shouldn't grow beards because it makes their face look like an armpit," she snarls.

Further pit-stops include a transgender tattoo artist called Deathy (Laverne Cox), Elle's ex-husband Karl (Sam Elliott) and Sage's workaholic mother Judy (Marcia Gay Harden), who writes emails while walking on a treadmill-desk.

As the deadline for the abortion approaches, Sage's emotional dam breaks.

"If you don't cry about this... what the hell are you gonna cry about?" sympathises Elle.

Grandma is a slight, yet entertaining character study, anchored by Tomlin's formidable turn as a fiercely independent woman, who continues to blaze a trail in her later years.

She catalyses delightful screen chemistry with Garner and Elliott, aided by a script peppered with sparkling one-liners.

Weitz' unhurried and unfussy direction allows the focus to remain on the cast as they wrestle with their characters' manifold dilemmas and make peace with their momentous decisions.

BURNIN' HOT HATCH

TESTED Ford Focus ST Mountune

David Ward

It will only cost an extra £1,250 but for drivers looking for some genuine extra sporty performance then it simply is “a no-brainer” because it even beats a Porsche Boxster all ends up and costs the best part of £15,000 less to buy anyway.

So if Ford's current Focus ST two-litre is not 'hot' enough for true, sports performance-minded motorist at a remarkably good value of £24,255 – it will do 0 to 62mph in 6.5 seconds and has a claimed top speed of 154mph from a maximum 247bhp – then a specially Ford approved tuning job will certainly blow the cobwebs away.

This Focus ST Mountune two-litre will set you back the best part of £25,500 (plus another £3,350 for those wishing to include a host of useful options onboard) but it will give the driver a taste of more crack, snap and pop most of us will ever want to experience in a truly hot hatchback.

Ideal for those performance-yearning motorists who can't wait for the ultimate go-faster

Focus – the rally-bred RS version – to arrive in the New Year then this Mountune version is clearly the next best thing with its 266bhp and 400 Nm of torque providing a 0 to 62mph in 5.7 seconds.

With all the race-going technology and years of experience of the Essex-based Mountune company on tap, this special Focus will provide the kind of subtle 'boy-racer' road-going performance than many drivers demand.

For those wanting a smaller performance version and have less cash to splash then Mountune will do the same job on the current Fiesta ST (normally priced from £17,395) for a mere £599.

But of the two, the Focus version is definitely top dog and having driven it for the best part of 900 miles over a wide variety of terrains, it lives up to its expectations in performance terms, but equally it's an extremely civilised and well behaved hatchback.

Yes, it's exhilarating to drive – even when trundling in and out of heavy city commuter traffic and sensibly using the nifty but precise and excellent feeling six-speed manual gearbox to change up and down for acceleration.

Once out on the open road such as a clear motorway and put the foot down then the adrenalin naturally rises as the car produces the sports performance some of us have longed to enjoy in a Ford – probably harping back as far as the days of the Sierra Cosworth version for those of us who can remember it.

Seriously, this car could get a driver into trouble with the men in blue in terms of speed if you're not careful because the acceleration comes in not only swiftly but so quietly and in such a refined manner that you may well be going faster than you think.

It really is that impressive and obviously Mountune has not only given this Focus a bit more power but also the latest automotive technology on board to ensure the ride, steering, braking and suspension comfortably copes with it all.

Basically to sum it up “it's the bee's knees” as we say certainly until that even faster Focus RS turns up.

What do you get for your £1,250 Mountune boost package? On the technical side, drivers gain a cast alloy induct, high-flo air filter element, larger alloy intercooler and special calibration – but for most drivers, it's all about having a slightly-tweaked engine that gives a bit extra in road-going performance.

The Focus chassis can cope with it all too and for the driver the key, in my view, to gain the benefit of the extra oomph is to tread a bit softly on the accelerator pedal and the power comes through in a quite civilised manner.

With firm suspension and sharp enough steering, this Mountune version will take its punishment with ease and for those who love a sporty exhaust note from such cars won't be disappointed either – it's a great sound that's not excessive either even with a turbocharger on board.

As for fuel consumption, this version returned a fairly decent enough average of 33.4mpg, even with some spirited driving at times which compares favourably with the claimed combined figure of 41.5mpg for the normal ST.

Sensibly too, this Mountune version doesn't have any loud body markings to show its pedigree – just a small yellow and black name subtle decal on the back.

Apart from the £1,250 Mountune, the test car came with options that included

Ford's SYNC DAB Navigational System (£250), rear view camera (£250), the BLIS blind spot (£525) and Ford's driver assist package that features stop/start, lane departure warning and automatic high beam (£450).

But it's a bit mean of Ford in my view that when someone is paying the best part of £28,000 for a really good sports orientated car they still charge £85 for the rather flimsy plastic door edge protectors and another £95 for a heated steering wheel when both should be standard at that price.

Verdict: The latest Focus ST itself is a well engineered sports package with an excellent chassis and much more but for those drivers who want that little extra in performance terms then yes the Mountune option is well worth it, particularly at the £1,250 asking price.

Incidentally, this upgrade is fully endorsed by Ford, so the car's warranty (three years or 60,000 miles) remains intact and should anyone buying an ST want the Mountune upgrade then there are selected Ford dealers approved to carry out the work.

GEMINI MAY 22 - JUNE 21

There is a really exciting time to your life at the moment which should give you reason to act on your impulses and to do what feels right instead of just what looks right. A decision you make this week shapes the rest of your year, not just the month ahead. Give me a call now to hear why it's worth coming clean about lies in business.

Social aspects are strong and you start to do what feels right instead of what looks right. I can see from your stars that family have not been much use to you recently. However, from this week you start to see with ease what needs to be done to get back on track. Ring now to hear why it's worth saving instead of spending this year.

Harlow's good sports placed in the spotlight

Talented stars and groups' achievements celebrated

THE achievements of the town's sporting community were recognised at the Active Harlow Sports Awards.

The awards, funded by Active Harlow, were held in the council chamber at Harlow Civic Centre.

The evening was hosted by the council chairman Tony Hall and Harlow Paralympian wheelchair racer, Anne Wafula-Strike.

Opening the ceremony, Cllr Hall said: "The awards celebrate the achievements of Harlow's current sporting talent as well as its emerging sporting talent, and organisations and individuals that are going over and above in their endeavours to provide quality opportunities for the residents of Harlow to participate in sporting opportunities."

Taking the top prize in the Unsung Hero category was Harlow Rugby Club volunteer Alexander Fleming.

Mr Fleming, who initially qualified as a first aider in 1932, has been volunteering as Harlow Rugby Club's first aid coordinator for 26 years.

In that time, he has rarely missed a Sunday morning and is always on hand to offer advice to players, parents, team managers and coaches.

Runner-up was Charlie Fisk, (pictured below) who has developed a 'back to netball' coaching programme for both Stewards Academy and Paringdon Sports' Club. She also set up the Dreamers Netball Team, which is now known as Tornadoes Netball Club and has teams in Harlow, Ware, Cheshunt and Bishop's Stortford.

Stewards Academy pupil Owen Harknett scooped the Young Volunteer of the Year – sponsored by Fresh Freestyle Plus Management.

He volunteers for a project run by Harlow and Epping Forest Councils called Harlow Healthworks, which was for young people to help youngsters improve fitness, healthy eating and helping the community.

Runner-up was Lowen Hall, who took up coaching at the end of her gymnastics career.

Harlow Gymnastics Club, which offers sporting activities to 750 children every week, were named Sports Club of the Year.

In the past year, the club has secured more than 50 medals at both county and regional levels with more than 100 children taking part in county competitions.

Picking up the runner-up prize was Harlow Running Club.

Tireless

Harlow Rugby Club's Paul Eynon won the Coach of the Year prize for his work tirelessly promoting the club to young people, raising funds, and communicating events and activities to parents and schools.

He is the lead coach for the U9s team and has worked voluntarily at the club for many years. Eynon has also played at the club for many years and previously captained the first XV before retiring from playing.

Disability Sports Personality of the Year went to Richard Chiassaro, who this year has represented Great Britain at competitions in Switzerland, Indianapolis, and at the IPC World Championships in Doha, Qatar. He is currently ranked eighth in the world in the T54 100m and is only 0.48 seconds behind world number one. He is currently ranked number one in Great Britain for the 100m, 200m and 400m.

Winner of the Young Sports Personality of the Year award, sponsored by Fresh Freestyle Plus Management, was Sidnie Ward.

In just one year, Sidnie has won cross country and 800m titles across Essex and the South East for his U13 age group. Sidnie is ranked first in the UK for U13s in the 800m class and fourth over 1,500m.

Runner-up was Will Marklew (pictured left), who is ranked number one in the UK for U18 decathlon, fifth in the UK for U20 javelin, and sixth in the UK for U20 decathlon.

He also won international gold for England in the U20s javelin in July.

The Sports Personality of the Year award was presented to bowls player Steven Mitchinson.

In January, he was runner-up in the England Champion of Champions, and in March was picked to represent England in the British Isles Series.

He also secured both the Essex County Singles and Essex County Pairs titles in April. Mitchinson has now been picked to represent England in the 2016 British Isles Series in Wales and the Hong Kong Classic.

Harlow Rugby Club's first female chairman, Tracey Wedd, was named runner-up.

Wafula-Strike said: "If we truly want to grow a healthy community, we need to embrace the benefits of sports, some of which may be indirect but with long-term benefits. I urge local businesses in Harlow to join with Harlow Council and Active Harlow."

Other winners included Harlow College, which was named Active Workplace of the Year, and the Doorstep Sports Club at Paringdon Sports and Social Club, which provides free sport activities to young people, and picked up the Changing Lives through Sport and Physical Activity award.

Church Langley School was named School or College of the Year, with Charles Kao University Technical College runner-up.

Physical Activity Project of the Year went to Harlow parkrun with Stanley4Fitness taking the runner-up slot.

Rams breeze into title race: Lowe and behold

Clever use of weather conditions gives hosts key win

RFU London & SE Division
Three North East

Harlow 27
Lowestoft & Yarmouth 19

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertsexnews.co.uk

RAMS first team manager Steve Foreman felt his side dealt with the awful gale-force conditions better as perennial promotion challengers Lowestoft & Yarmouth were dispatched on Saturday.

Fly-half Danny Smith was influential once again, scoring a fabulous individual try and also kicking some crucial conversions as Harlow closed the gap on neighbours Epping Upper Clapton in London Division Three North East.

Foreman said: "We needed a 20-point lead [at half-time], we just about held out. You could quite easily see a couple of scores [for Lowestoft] and we would have been playing catch-up."

Foreman felt Harlow dealt with the conditions better when the wind was not in their favour in the second half.

Dancer

"Our fly-half Danny Smith kicked it in the corner a lot more. You can see he's a dancer; he goes from side to side. He's really important," he said.

With the wind in their favour in the first period the Rams needed to build a healthy lead, which they did and led 27-7.

However, the visitors staged a tremendous fightback with the wind in their favour after the break, but could not close the gap enough.

Harlow got off to a flying start when a rolling maul from a line-out ended with Kain Claridge peeling off and scoring a try in the right corner.

"It was a great try after the forwards set it up," said an impressed Foreman.

Smith's conversion went wide on a difficult afternoon for kicking.

The Rams scored their second try on 16 minutes when Smith picked the ball up and ran 30 yards, twisting one way and another to beat four defenders and score a stunning unconverted try.

Lowestoft enjoyed a period of pressure and halved the deficit on 23 minutes.

A clever quick tap penalty from Brad Sutherland saw him pass to Chris Beard and with extra men wide, he found Stephen Gaines who scored a try converted by Beard to make it 10-7.

Smith missed an easy penalty in front of the posts, but Harlow were undeterred and scored their third try on 28 minutes.

Great work from the impressive Claridge and Jake Kent-Pope ended with Daniel Fitzgerald scoring the five pointer, which Smith converted (17-7).

When Lowestoft were punished for not releasing in the tackle, Smith's penalty made it 20-7.

Six minutes before the break Harlow scored their fourth try and secured a bonus point.

It was more brute strength than anything else as veteran Kerry Palmer broke past two tackles and fed Scott Whitby, who in turn found Ashley Westall.

He still had a lot to do but showed tremendous power to force his way over the try line.

Smith's conversion gave the hosts a 27-7 half-time advantage.

Four minutes after the restart Gaines grabbed his second try for Lowestoft, running half the length of the pitch to score.

The conversion was missed.

With ten minutes left, Lowestoft set up a grandstand finish when Beard stormed through some poor defence to score a try which he converted.

But the Rams defended heroically in awful conditions to secure their sixth win in eight matches.

Epping Upper Clapton lost top spot after a surprise defeat at Southwold.

HARLOW: Mackie, Westall, Brown, Whitby, Phillips, Smith, Kent-Pope, Ephgrave, M. Bowering, Cunningham, Twiner, Palmer, Roberts, Quinn, Claridge. Replacements: Fitzgerald, J. Clark, A. Clark.

■ HARLOW lost 34-17 to Fullers in the first round of the English National Cup.

Harlow among four in promotion battle

FOUR teams are battling it out to go up in RFU London Division Three North East this term, says Rams manager Steve Foreman.

This made the 27-19 win over promotion rivals Lowestoft & Yarmouth even more sweeter for Harlow on Saturday.

"Lowestoft are one of the strongest teams in the league. Out of the four of us [Lowestoft, Harlow, Epping Upper Clapton and West Norfolk] they have a chance of going up or getting the play-off place," said Foreman.

"The return fixtures are going to be very important.

"Next week is against Wanstead [at home]. That has got to be a five-point win. We can't afford to slip up."

Harlow have suffered a blow with the news that prop Peter Frost suffered a dislocated kneecap against Stevenage in the Senior Vase. He is expected to be out for a few months.

Frost will undergo tests this week to survey the extent of the damage.

Foreman was impressed with number eight Kain Claridge, arguably tied with fly-half Danny Smith for man of the match against Lowestoft. Both players scored crucial tries.

"For a lanky individual, his tackling is phenomenal. He breaks up the ball. He provides a lot of space," beamed Foreman.

Langley pupils manage themselves to seal finals joy

SUCCESS: The triumphant Church Langley teams

CHURCH Langley Primary School students continued their domination of the tag rugby tournaments in Harlow to reach the county finals in Southend.

What made the teams' achievements this year even more incredible was the fact that they managed themselves as their usual coaches were officiating at the tournament for Harlow primary schools.

Church Langley assistant headteacher David Stacey and teaching assistant Gill Pardoe, usually take the school's teams.

However, they were too busy refereeing the tag rugby finals, which were held at Mark Hall Academy in Old Harlow.

A spokesperson said: "Well done once again to all the fantastic kids at Church Langley, who saw both A and B teams take the top two spots in this year's tag rugby finals at Mark Hall Academy.

"This achievement is made all the more impressive when you factor in that both teams managed themselves completely as Mr Stacey and Mrs Pardoe were officiating.

"We are so proud of your efforts – you train hard and play fair. Supporters were warmed by the fantastic standard of play in the group matches and re-pooled group games."

Langley's A team beat the school's B team in the final.

They now go through to the county final which will take place at Southend Rugby Club in the early part of next year.

Nine teams from seven Harlow schools competed in the event.

Other teams came from St Albans, St Luke's, Pear Tree Mead, Katherines, St James C of E and Henry Moore.

St Luke's won the Shield competition and St James triumphed in the Plate contest.

Harlow see out 2015 on a high

East Men's Hockey League Division Six South East
Harlow 3
Maldon 0

HARLOW saw out 2015 with another three points, another clean sheet and a cool five-point lead at the top of the Division Six South East table.

The visit of Maldon was always going to prove a tough task.

Harlow started brightly but chances were few and far between as leading scorer Andy Boughtwood was constantly marked by two opposing defenders.

Maldon's play revolved around the crash ball and with agility up front their young forward quickly got his first opportunity, breaking through the defence for a one-on-one with keeper Richard Norris, who stalled the striker long enough for Kim Harvey to get back and make a tackle.

This spurred Maldon on, who won a penalty corner and drew the best out of the home keeper with a smart double save.

At the other end, finally Boughtwood broke free of his markers and fired the ball high into the net to put the home side in front before half-time.

After the break, Harlow quickly broke upfield with Luke Krzoska teeing up Boughtwood for his second.

The game was settled a few minutes later when another strong midfield move allowed Krzoska to find Boughtwood in space again to complete his hat-trick in stunning fashion with a trademark rifled finish.

Maldon kept the pressure on Harlow to the very end with a flurry of penalty corners all of which was stifled by a defence which has the lowest goals conceded in the league so far this season.

Harlow take a well deserved Christmas break and will return to action in January away to a Wapping side who they convincingly beat earlier in the season.

Leopards end winning streak

LEVETT Essex Leopards ended London Lituanica's 37-game home winning streak with a stunning 89-68 victory in the English Basketball League Division One.

The newly-promoted side were unbeaten in league games but were blown away by the Big Cats' best performance of the season, as they chalked up their third straight win.

Ladi Brown led his team with 21 points on Sunday.

The Big Cats now face a double-header weekend in the North East, playing Tees Valley Mohawks on Saturday and Team Northumbria the following day.

Boss schtum over keeper fallout

THE departure of goalkeeper Niklas Freund from Harlow Town will remain a mystery after a fallout with boss Danny Chapman.

The Hawks manager was keeping schtum about the departure of the 21-year-old son of Spurs star Steffen Freund, who joined the club last summer after spells at Chelmsford City and Witham.

Freund was superb in the FA Cup replay away to Bath City, making a couple of key saves as Harlow progressed.

He had played the majority of Harlow's matches this season but has been replaced by former Enfield Town and Thurrock custodian David Hughes, 23, as Hawks' number one.

Chapman said: "Unfortunately Niklas is no longer with us, for reasons between me and Niklas."

Harlow suffered their fifth defeat in 20 league matches when they were stung by play-off chasing AFC Sudbury's 88th-minute winner at The Harlow Arena on Saturday.

Harlow started well and Layne Eadie saw a shot superbly saved by Sudbury keeper Marcus Garnham.

On 16 minutes Harlow took the lead. Alex Read's shot hit the bar and bounced kindly for Joe Benjamin to stab in from a yard out.

Harlow met a brick wall in the shape of Sudbury keeper Garnham, who made three fantastic saves from Junior Dadson.

Ibrahima Sonko saw a header blocked on the goal line as Harlow could not break through.

Dadson's effort struck the bar for the Hawks on 40 minutes.

Their profligacy was to cost them as the visitors levelled close to half-time.

Wind assisted

It was a rather fortunate goal that was wind assisted as Luke Callander's 20-yard strike deceived Harlow keeper Hughes two minutes before the break.

There were few chances in the second half, but Sudbury went close when Callander's free-kick was superbly tipped over the bar by Hughes.

Moments later Sudbury sub Liam Wales' goal-bound effort was blocked from virtually on the line by a Harlow defender.

Sudbury grabbed what proved to be the winner two minutes from time after a mistake from Hughes. Sudbury sub Jordan Blackwell's effort should have been saved but struck the right post and when Harlow could not clear, Craig Parker slotted the ball over the line.

On the Sudbury winner, Chapman said: "He's an experienced goalkeeper and he is disappointed with himself. He's got to gather it or push it behind. I think he got caught in two minds.

"But there will be times this year when he will save us points. We only had Sammy West follow the rebound up, so that disappointed me more than the save.

"There's still a lot of football to go and we are five points off the target we wanted to be at with the games we have played.

"I said to the boys you look over the last few weeks, the injuries and suspensions we had.

"I know we will be there or thereabouts come the end of the season.

"On another day we score three or four of those chances and we came to rue those chances.

"The boys are really disappointed, but the performance was there and we can take that on into the next game."

HARLOW TN: Hughes, Pope, Eadie, West, Sonko, Simms, Dadson, Moto, Read (Wixon 78), Fisher (Gordon 83), Benjamin (Small 58).

Wind wins in Ladies' stalemate

HARLOW Ladies had to contend with Southend as well as the remnants of Storm Desmond in their 1-1 home draw on Saturday.

The point moved Harlow out of the bottom three in their final Essex Women's Hockey League Premier Division match of 2015.

The strength of the wind made the game harder than usual as the ball was whipped along in one direction and slowed in the other, while players battled to run in the blustery conditions.

Harlow started the stronger with Rowena Ricketts running the show from the left, supported by Georgina Esterhuysen-Smith.

Harlow were controlling the possession but a breakaway from Southend led to a short corner. A well-worked move was blocked on the line by a defender's foot and Southend were awarded a flick.

Laura Hay, in goal, stood no chance as the attacker put the ball in a corner.

This meant Southend led against the run of play.

Harlow equalised a short time later when from their own short corner a shot from Emma Tweddle was deflected into a corner.

In the second half Harlow pressed forward with good interplay between Naidoo Ball and Beth Spencer but the ball never fell kindly in the D.

Esterhuysen-Smith had two further shots smothered by the Southend keeper but nothing was clear cut.

Southend had a few chances with player of the match Lara Horrax slotting in at right-back marshalled by Sam Care at centre-back.

In the dying minutes a shot went close from Southend with a good save made by Hay.

A draw was a fair result with the winner being the weather.

Hawks' unbeaten run ends

THE Harlow Hawks' unbeaten run in the Essex Basketball League Division Two came to an end with a narrow 74-66 loss at Southend Scorpions seconds on Monday evening.

The hosts, second in the table, opened up an early six-point lead after the first ten minutes of the first quarter.

Rimantas Norkeliunas led the early scoring, but poor offence cost Harlow.

Tom White suppressed the Scorpions' sting, and Harlow were ten points adrift at half-time.

Great fast break action from Richard Whytock and Lee

Morris left the hosts 36-26 up.

A quick lay-up from Russ Allan, followed by tough scoring from Norkeliunas provided hope in the third quarter.

Allan finished the quarter with a five-point run.

Harlow were still ten points behind in the final quarter.

Five points from D. Rozgonyuk narrowed the gap before a Morris three-pointer and an incredible three-pointer from rookie J. Fuhrmann made it a one-point game with four minutes left.

Norkeliunas and Rozgonyuk kept it tight but the Scorpions edged ahead to seal victory.

RAMS HOMING IN ON STADIUM JOY

Rugby club hope to move into super complex in 2016

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertssexnews.co.uk

THE Rams can see the finishing line in sight and could move into their new multi-million pound state-of-the-art complex at Latton Farm as early as next year.

Harlow Rugby Club have re-submitted plans to Harlow Council for the site, near First Avenue, which could be approved in February.

These involve slight tinkering, including a ramp designed to prevent any breaches of building regulations, fire regulations and licensing issues.

The entire project has now been put out to tender.

Kier is heavily involved in the project as it will oversee the construction of houses on the Rams' old ground in Elizabeth Way once the new facility is complete.

There are four companies bidding to build the new stadium.

Floodlit

These include RFU-approved suppliers of artificial pitches.

The club is hopeful of securing funding from the RFU for an artificial pitch after the association earmarked £50 million nationwide for these surfaces.

The new complex will include a total of six pitches including three floodlit pitches as well as a plush new clubhouse with separate changing rooms for men and women – not offered at Rams Gorse presently.

HRFUC project chairman Alan Brooking is confident the clubhouse will be built by December next year.

The only hold-up could be if the pitches are not ready for matches to be played on.

Brooking said: "It's exciting. Everything is now in place. We're going to be sending out design packs to the companies that are bidding to build the facility. That process should finish at the same time as the planning decision, if that decision is in our favour then we can pretty much issue the contract for the build.

"We still believe it's going to happen. We are looking to move to the new facility around about December [2016].

"The clubhouse will be finished before the pitches are ready. At the very latest it's going to be February 2017.

"If everything goes well we would expect contractors to commence work in March [2016].

"We will probably start on the clubhouse in May, that will take five or six months. The key is to start it no later than June.

"The crucial thing is to get the pitches down. We may not have laid the main pitch down, but we will have done all the other work."

It will give Harlow one of the best rugby stadiums in Essex.

"It's all about moving rugby forward and moving the club forward," Brooking added.

Full-back next Hawks target

HAVING signed four players in the last month, Hawks boss Danny Chapman has set his sights on one final player as the missing piece of his jigsaw.

The Harlow Town manager hopes to bring in a right-back.

It follows the acquisitions of 23-year-old former Thurrock and Enfield Town goalkeeper David Hughes, former Brentwood Town and Waltham Abbey striker Piers Wixon, plus midfielders, ex-Boreham Wood star Mario Noto and former Brentwood player Leon Fisher.

He said: "I am still looking for a right-back. That is the only area we are light on."

Chapman re-signed Wixon (pictured above) because he doesn't want 100+ goals striker Alex Read suffering burn out.

"You can't ask Ready [Alex Read] to play 90 minutes every game all through the season."

"It's too much for anyone. [Junior [Dadson] has been helping," he said.

"Piers has come in and he's looked quite sharp in training. We had a chat and decided he was the right person to bring in. He's good competition for Alex."

Hughes was at Thurrock when they played Hartlepool United in the FA Cup.

He won the Player of the Year and Supporters' Player of the year award at Thurrock last season.

"David has come in and he is now the number one goalkeeper at this football club."

Harlow visit Great Wakering Rovers in Ryman North on Saturday, before a tough trip to Thurrock on Tuesday.

Harlow's scheduled Ryman North home match against Wroxham last Tuesday was postponed because the Yachtmen were instead in Norfolk Senior Cup action.
